W. H. PIPES

CLASS PROPHECY OF 1935

BY ELIZABETH A. CLEMMONS

(Time: 1950)

Will this train ever get to Pipesville? I will never make connections at this rate. From the little information I can get, Pipesville does not sound like a place I would like to stay in overnight. That is my one objection to traveling in the South. If only the railroads would take over John Green's new invention, there would be no worrying about connections. I read Letitia Woods' latest novel and that leaves me with nothing to read. Oh, I forgot. Here is my newspaper. Calvin Washington and Frank Seabrooks are doing a splendid piece of work in putting it out. I can't resist looking at the funny sheet first. Joseph Williams and John Holly really keep the world going around with humor. They seem to have a monopoly on all of the newspapers, too. Now let me see what is going on in the sport world. Franklyn Jackson is abroad competing for the Hearst Cup in tennis. Preston Daniels went in for professional baseball. Not so bad either.

My! it is good seeing old Pipes after all these years. You haven't changed much, only you can really grow a beard now. I have been reading about the good work you have accomplished here in the South. I had no idea you were located in this town. Then, too, I should have recognized the similarity of the names. Bobby McClasky is here in charge of the Home Economics Department. I thought she was in Tuskegee. Abigail Kyzer! Good for her! Corinne Cropper and Emily Harris are here. Henry Paige is head of the Social Science Department, and Harry Arnold is in the English Department.

Thomas Petty? I read in last week's paper that he won in the election as a Commissioner, defeating Frank Jones. I wish you could hear Lawton Johnson campaigning for Petty.

Come on in, Pipes, perhaps you can contribute to the conversation. Reginald McDuffie has taken over his father's school. Your wife was telling me that Rosa Heard and Rosa Wilson are there in the Home Economics Department. I was wondering what had become of George Waterford and Leslie V. Warren until she told me that they were there. Oswald Fucles, Kermit Simmons, and Murrel Johnson are in the trade division.

I was really shocked when your wife told me about Abraham Thomas being in British Guiana working with James Kidney. Vesta Lowe is one of the foremost leaders among women there. I saw some of Harold Barker's work at the Photographers' exhibit.

I have talked you to the dropping point, I know, but when I see my classmates, I am always interested in trying to find out what the others are doing. Girtha Wilkerson and Rowena Wallace? I don't believe I remember them. Now that you mention it, they took nurse training. It is news to know that they are back at John A. Andrews. I saved the best news for the last. Thomas Waller is second Cab Calloway. He is at the Cotton Club in New York.

I must get some rest now, because my train leaves early, and I can't stay any longer, although I would like to very much. Goodnight.

CLASS WILL

Teachers and students of Tuskegee Institute, we, the honorable and dignified Seniors of the Class of 1935, having passed the four milestones, are about to leave you. Since we have been found to be mentally unbalanced, physically unfit, morally unsound and have never passed any examinations, we therefore do make, publish, ordain, declare, and proclaim this our last Will and Testament.

ARTICLE ONE—GENERAL BEQUESTS

Section I—To our noble dean and advisor, Mr. W. T. B. Williams, we leave the unhappy prospect of trying to run this school without our able assistance.

Section II—To the faculty, as a whole, we give all due affection and thanks for their aid in preparing us for life's struggle.

Section III—To the Freshmen we leave our superior dignity, being aware of their painful lack of the same.

Section IV—To Mrs. Landers, the dean of women, we return all privileges she allowed the girls to keep.

Section V—To the school we return any knowledge we have unconsciously absorbed.

Section VI—To the Junior Class we leave our seats in the Dining Hall and in Chapel.

ARTICLE TWO—PERSONAL BEQUESTS

I, Franklin Jackson, bequeath one-tenth of my scholastic energy to Ernest MacCampbell.

I, Lawton Johnson, leave my flowing mane of hair and my ability to worry over responsibilities to Edward Drye.

We, Thelma Dick and James Whittaker, leave our seats in the library to George and Hazel Smith.

We, Winifred Woods, Zora Barnes and Letitia Woods, leave our spectacles to whoever needs aid in reading ponies.

I, Robert Moton, Jr., bequeath my position as Senior President to the unfortunate Junior who receives the office.

I, Elizabeth Clemmons, do will by senior dignity to my roommate, Woodia Smith.

I, Calvin Washington, leave my ability to do bookkeeping to Mr. Campfield to distribute as he thinks best.

We, Vernal Cambridge, Vesta Lowe, and James Kidney, do bequeath foreign accents to somebody that can't talk anyway.

We, Chauncey Harmon and Emma Lee, give a few loving glances—to the school.

I, Emma Campfield, leave my brains to the Freshman most in need of them.

We, Alma Huff and Bobby McClasky, will our places in the Dining Hall to Willie Carnegie and Lola Belle Thomas.

I, Alcenia Billingsley, bequeath my post as "senior flirt" to Birdie Crawford.

I, Joseph Williams, leave my ability to "woof" to Royal Dunham.

I, William Falls, leave my loud mouth to Arthur Harper.

We, Arnold and Pipes, leave our ability to blow the bugle late to Alton Fleming.

We, the Home Economics Girls, give the Home Economics kitchen to Miss Simms to be cleaned as she thinks best.

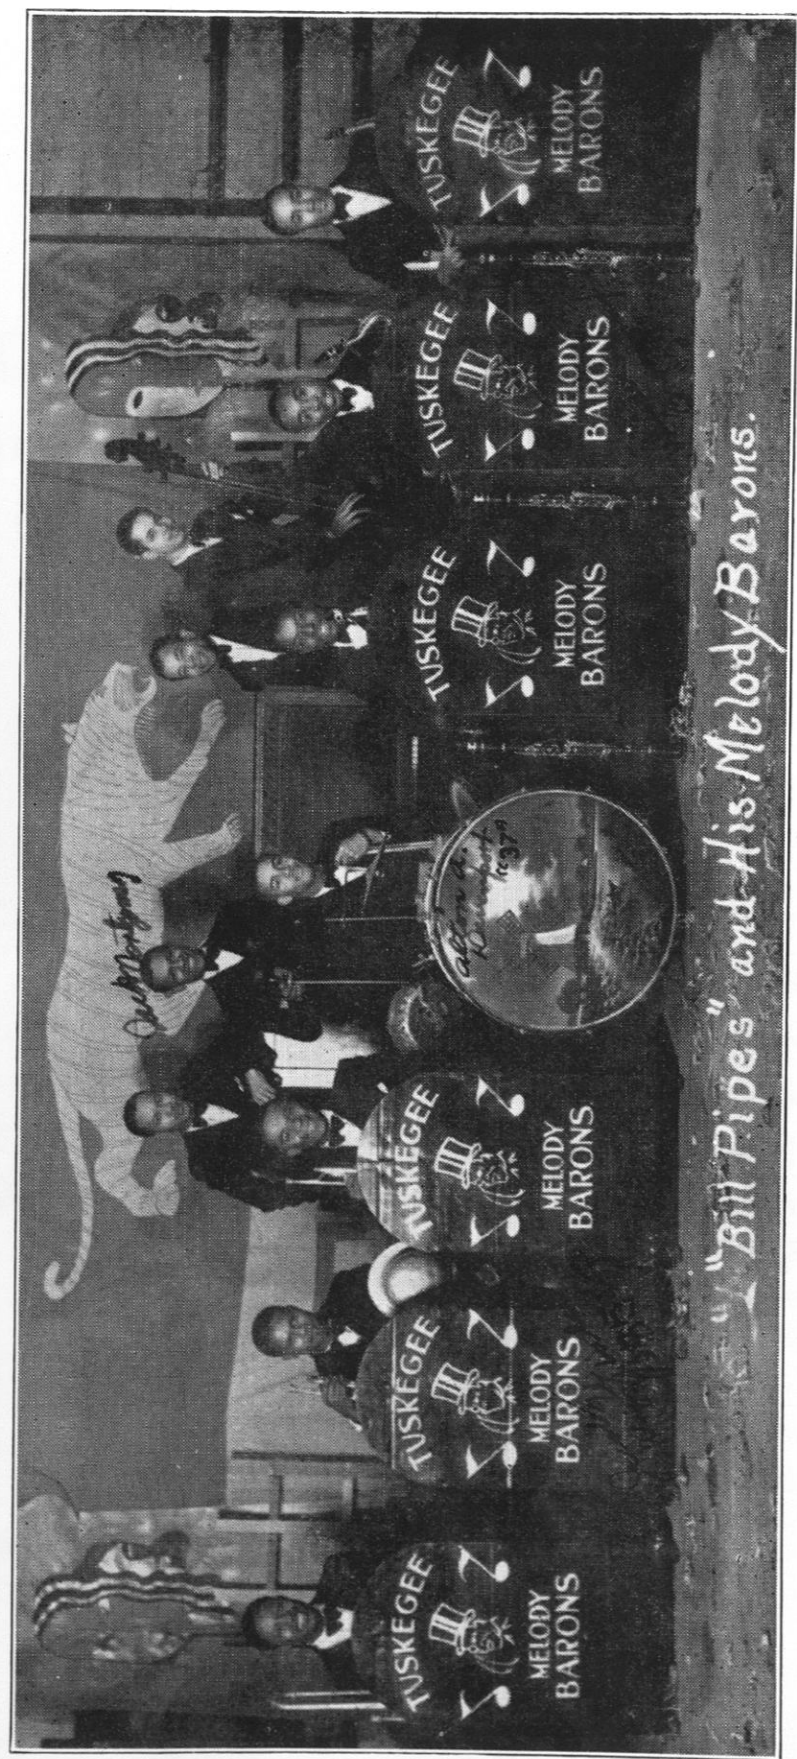

I, John Holly, leave my ability to cartoon to Hiawatha Reynolds.

I, William Harleaux, bequeath my beard to Marcus Davis.

I, Louis Rabb, leave my ability as a great lover and my appellation of "cute" to my brother.
